Hannegan Shocked, Startled

Issues Statement
There is no Truth
To Story Truman
Will not be Candidate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(P)—Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan today said there is "no truth" in a report that President Truman told a group of advisers he will not be a candidate for the presidency in 1948.

Hannegan issued a formal statement from the Democratic National Committee headquarters. It said:

"There is no truth in the report that President Truman told a group of White House advisers that he would not be a candidate for the presidency in 1948."

"The president has been so busy with foreign and domestic problems of overshadowing importance that he has had no time to consider the 1948 election."

"I do not know the origin of the story appearing in the newspapers today. To my knowledge no such meeting as was described was ever held."

No White House Comment

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, replied "No comment," when asked about the report.

The story to which Hannegan referred was a Washington dispatch to the Chicago Sun. It told of a reported incident at the White House several weeks ago in which the President is reputed to have told intimates he did not want to run in 1948.

But one democratic lieutenant, who declined to be quoted by name, said he and others regarded Mr. Truman's reported statement as only a reiteration of the view the president has entertained since he succeeded to the office last April.

Mr. Truman has told friends in the past that he would much prefer to have remained on Capitol Hill. He has said to them he did not seek the presidency in any way but would do his best to do credit to the office.

Personal Modesty

Party chieftains were inclined to class the latest reported declarations as another indication of his personal modesty. But they said that they have little doubt Mr. Truman can be convinced that he is likely to be the only democratic candidate who has a chance of winning for the party in 1948.

Some of these democratic leaders reportedly have been telling Mr. Truman that, in effect, he is a "prisoner of his party."

A Washington dispatch to the Chicago Sun last night said Mr. Truman's reported assertion "came without warning one night several weeks ago at a routine White House conference in which administration legislation was being discussed."

Written by Thomas F. Reynolds, of the Sun's Washington staff, the dispatch referred to an incident as "a virtual renunciation of democratic party leadership."

Reynolds' Story

Saying the account came from "high administration sources," Reynolds added:

The private presidential declaration was said to have shocked Robert E. Hannegan, democratic national chairman and postmaster general, to the extent that he imposed complete silence on the handful of White House advisers who overheard Mr. Truman's statement.

"Since the incident occurred, several weeks ago, Hannegan has been striving at every opportunity to strengthen the impression that Mr. Truman is a candidate to succeed himself for a second term."

Reynolds said "The details of Mr. Truman's statement vary in different accounts. One account says that he declared that he has no wish to run for re-election. Another account says that he said he does not intend to run. But all accounts agree that Hannegan was shocked and startled."

Irish Relatives Meet

Archbishop Glennon

SHANNON, Eire, Feb. 12—(P)—Three sisters and three nephews of Archbishop John Joseph Glennon, of St. Louis, greeted him here today upon his arrival on the trip to Rome to become a Cardinal.

The sisters are Mrs. Brigid O'Connor, Mrs. Mary Hughes and Mrs. Elizabeth Connally, all of County Heath.

Lincoln Personality

Lincoln in melancholy mood, "with a deep latent sadness in the expression," as Walt Whitman described him. This Brady photograph was taken in Washington, early in May, 1861, when the capital was in turmoil, martial law had been declared and fighting had broken out in Baltimore. Civil war had begun.

Third Annual Hereford Cattle Show

At State Fair Grounds on February 19-20

The third annual Missouri State Hereford Cattle show and sale will be held at the Missouri State fair grounds February 19-20.

Seventy-four registered animals selected from leading herds of the state will be sold at the auction on the second day.

The event is part of the Missouri livestock improvement program made possible by legislative appropriation. It is sponsored cooperatively by the Missouri Hereford Cattle Breeders Association, the American Hereford Cattle Breeders Association and the Missouri State Department of Agriculture. Glen Davis, of the department's livestock division, is superintendent of the show and sale.

Judge of the show, to be held Tuesday, February 19, will be Prof. E. A. Trowbridge, of the University of Missouri. Silver trophies for the champion bull and champion female will be provided by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

Fine Cattle in Sale

Members of the committee which selected cattle for the sale assert that this year's offerings are "the best we have ever had."

Consignors include: Idolour Farm, W. C. Bowling, Columbia; Davidsdale Farm, W. C. Windsor, Bonnville; Charles Bianchi, Macon; Dunn & Son, Greensburg; Edg-Clit Farms, Potosi; Elliott & Sons, Bois D' Arc; Henry W. Flickens, Windsor; Greenleaf Farm, Bonne Terre; Harris & Son, Harrison; Dr. G. W. Hawkins, Salisbury; Rolla R. Jones, Calhoun; Longview Farms, Lees Summit; E. R. Matney & Sons, Dearborn; Richard & W. Robinson, Labadie; O. M. Robinson, Lathrop; Scott & Samuel, Weaubleau; H. A. Shanks, Centerview; A. B. Shelton, Unionville; Slagle & Richardson, Ravenwood; Spring Creek Ranch, Green Castle; J. E. Summers & Sons, Gilliam; Whitelen Farm, Breckinridge.

Large Real Estate Deal in St. Louis

St. Louis, Feb. 12—(P)—Four downtown buildings, occupied by the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney, Inc., department store and several offices, have been sold by the General American Life Insurance Company to Fred M. Saigh, Jr., St. Louis business man, and undisclosed eastern interests, it was announced yesterday.

Saigh said the price was well above $5,250,000. It was one of the largest real estate deals made here in recent years.

Bringing Rubber In

LONG BEACH, Calif., Feb. 12—(P)—The first shipment of crude rubber since the war started—24,000 bales from India and Singapore—is being unloaded from the British motorship Empire Wilson. It is destined for the U. S. Commodity Credit Corporation.

MOSCOW, Feb. 12—(P)—Russian newspapers printed a report from Iran today that a "large number of English soldiers and officers" had arrived in Teheran last Friday and were billeted in the city's hotels. No comment accompanied the report.

LONDON, Feb. 12—(P)—A foreign office spokesman declared today: "You can flatly deny that any British troops have gone to Iran."

Long Delays In Lifting OPA Controls

Revised Summary Submitted by Administrator

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(P)—The house appropriations committee told congress today there will be long delays in lifting many of OPA's price controls.

It made public, in approving a deficiency appropriations bill for OPA, this revised summary and time-table submitted by OPA boss Chester Bowles.

Rents—Instead of dropping controls in 60 areas by the first of this year as planned earlier, OPA moved out of only 30 small areas, meanwhile adding 17 to its original list.

Food Problems

Food—Suspension of controls on milk, cream, ice cream and manufactured dairy products not likely until the spring of 1947; a few varieties of fish may be freed from controls by May, 1946; no suspension of controls on processed fruits and vegetables likely until after January 1, 1947; controls on major meat items probably will be retained until July, 1947.

(Controls on most of these items were scheduled to have been lifted around April 1, 1946.)

Consumer Goods—No suspension of textile or apparel items appears probable for the spring of 1947. (Earlier, OPA had told the committee it hoped to give serious consideration to removal of these controls by April 1, 1946.)

Schedule Postponed

Services—Removal of controls on laundering, dry cleaning and similar services, originally scheduled for late spring of this year, now indefinitely postponed. Control of restaurants, expected to continue "at least until autumn" instead of being removed early this year.

Industrial—No major control suspensions in prospect during the present fiscal year in the field of construction and building materials; no removal of restrictions on automobiles and automotive parts in sight before July 1, 1947.

Citation for John M. Fluty

GLENDALE, Calif., Feb. 12—(P)—Elias Brownfield, celebrating his 101st birthday today, opined that he has only one regret.

He electioneered against Abraham Lincoln back in Champaign, Ill., when Lincoln was running for president.

"He was a great man," Brownfield observed. "I guess I should have known better. But you know how it is. My father always voted for the democrats, so I just inherited his sentiments."

He says he keeps telling his 14 grandchildren and 25 great grandchildren that his prescription for longevity is not worrying.

"I never smoked or took liquor," he added. "But I don't think that has anything to do with it."

The citation, sent from Camp Campbell, Ky., reads as follows:

"Private First Class (then private) John M. Fluty, 37631695, Corps of Engineers, 7th Engineer Battalion, United States Army.

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 — Now that General Marshall is in China, the man President Truman leans most for military-naval advice is White House chief of staff Admiral William Leahy. Even on some foreign affairs problems, Truman is inclined to take Leahy's advice almost more than that of his secretary of state.

For that reason, what Leahy tells Truman today regarding Russia is important. The other day, Leahy went in to see his chief and said to him in substance:

"Mr. President, I told Franklin Roosevelt in 1937 that the time to prevent war was then. If we didn't stop the Japs then, I said, we'd find ourselves fighting on two fronts later, with much greater loss of life and a war that would drag on for a long time."

"Mr. Roosevelt, who was a very great man, agreed with me and tried to stop Japan. But there were others around him who believed in appeasing Japan and who held him back."

Note — Actually Admiral Leahy went much further than indicated above in trying to stop Japan. When the Japs sank the U. S. gunboat Panay and the British gunboat Ladybird, he urged and implored Cordell Hull that then was the time to surround Japan with American and British navies (the British not then being engaged in any European war) and cut off from Japan cotton, oil, copper and scrap iron. This, Leahy estimated, would bring Japan to her knees in three months. Hull's state department advisers, however, were frightened and he ruled against Leahy.

Stop Russia Now

"I am an old man," Leahy continued his advice to Truman. "I have been in this naval-diplomatic game for a long time. And I have a record that will hold up against that of anyone else. And I warn you now, Mr. President, that if we continue to appease Russia we will be up against the same situation we faced between 1937 and 1941, with eventual war. It won't come right away, but it will come in five years. The Russians can be our friends, but not if they think they can get away with everything; not if they think they can walk all over us. They are now in the aggressor's seat, and only a firm but friendly hand can stop them."

"Two and one-half nations came out of this war as leaders — the U. S. and the U. S. S. R., with Britain a poor third. We can't play Britain's game, but we can't appease Russia. If we do we will have war."

Note — President Truman also has been greatly worried over the Russian situation, though he is inclined to play along with Secretary Byrnes for a while and see whether the conciliatory policy Byrnes adopted at Moscow will get results.

Death to Rats

Secretary of the Interior Ickes may be dead on Ed Pauley, but he is also dead on rats. Most people don't realize it, but he is supposed to be chief rat killer to the nation — or rather the rodent division of his wild life bureau is.

It was Ickes' men who developed the deadly new rat poison, 1080, which, however, will not be distributed to the public. A Polish chemist discovered 1080 while working on poison gas. With the invasion of Poland, he escaped to London and turned his invention over to the Allies. It is not patented.

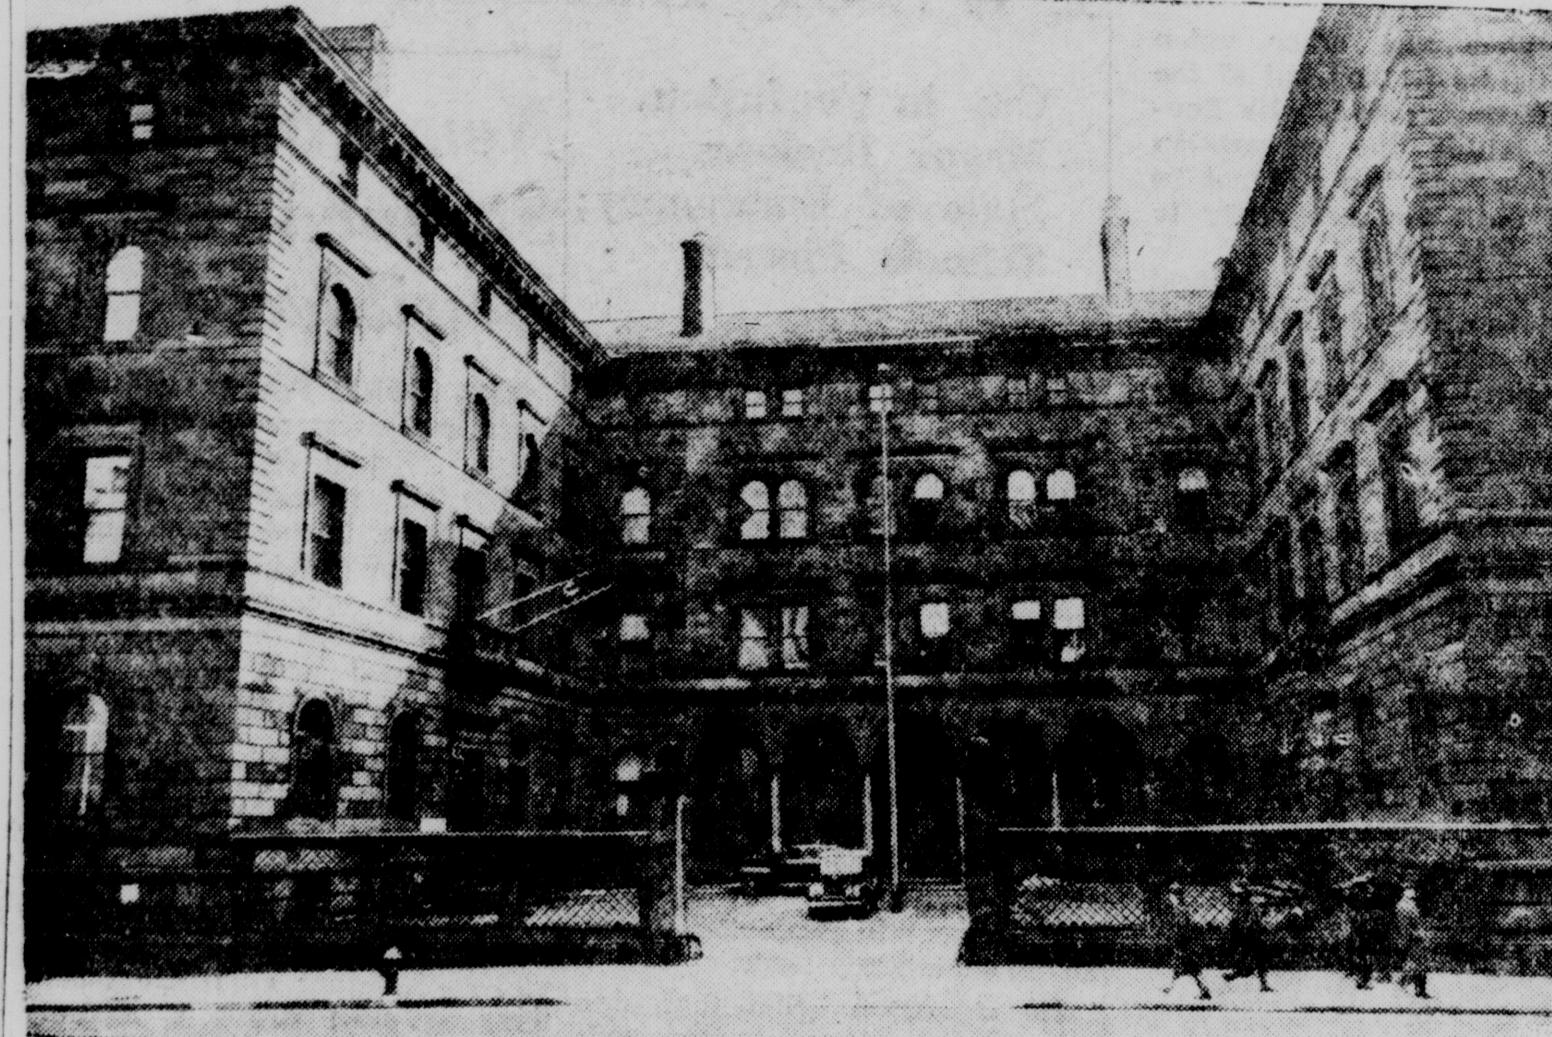

Ickes has farmed out 1080 to the Monsanto chemical works in St. Louis, the only company now making it. It will not be sold to the public for fear of killing cats and dogs. The poison is so strong that if a cat or dog gnaws at a rat killed by 1080, it in turn dies.

Farmers who have had their grain crops seriously depleted by rat invasions are rather critical

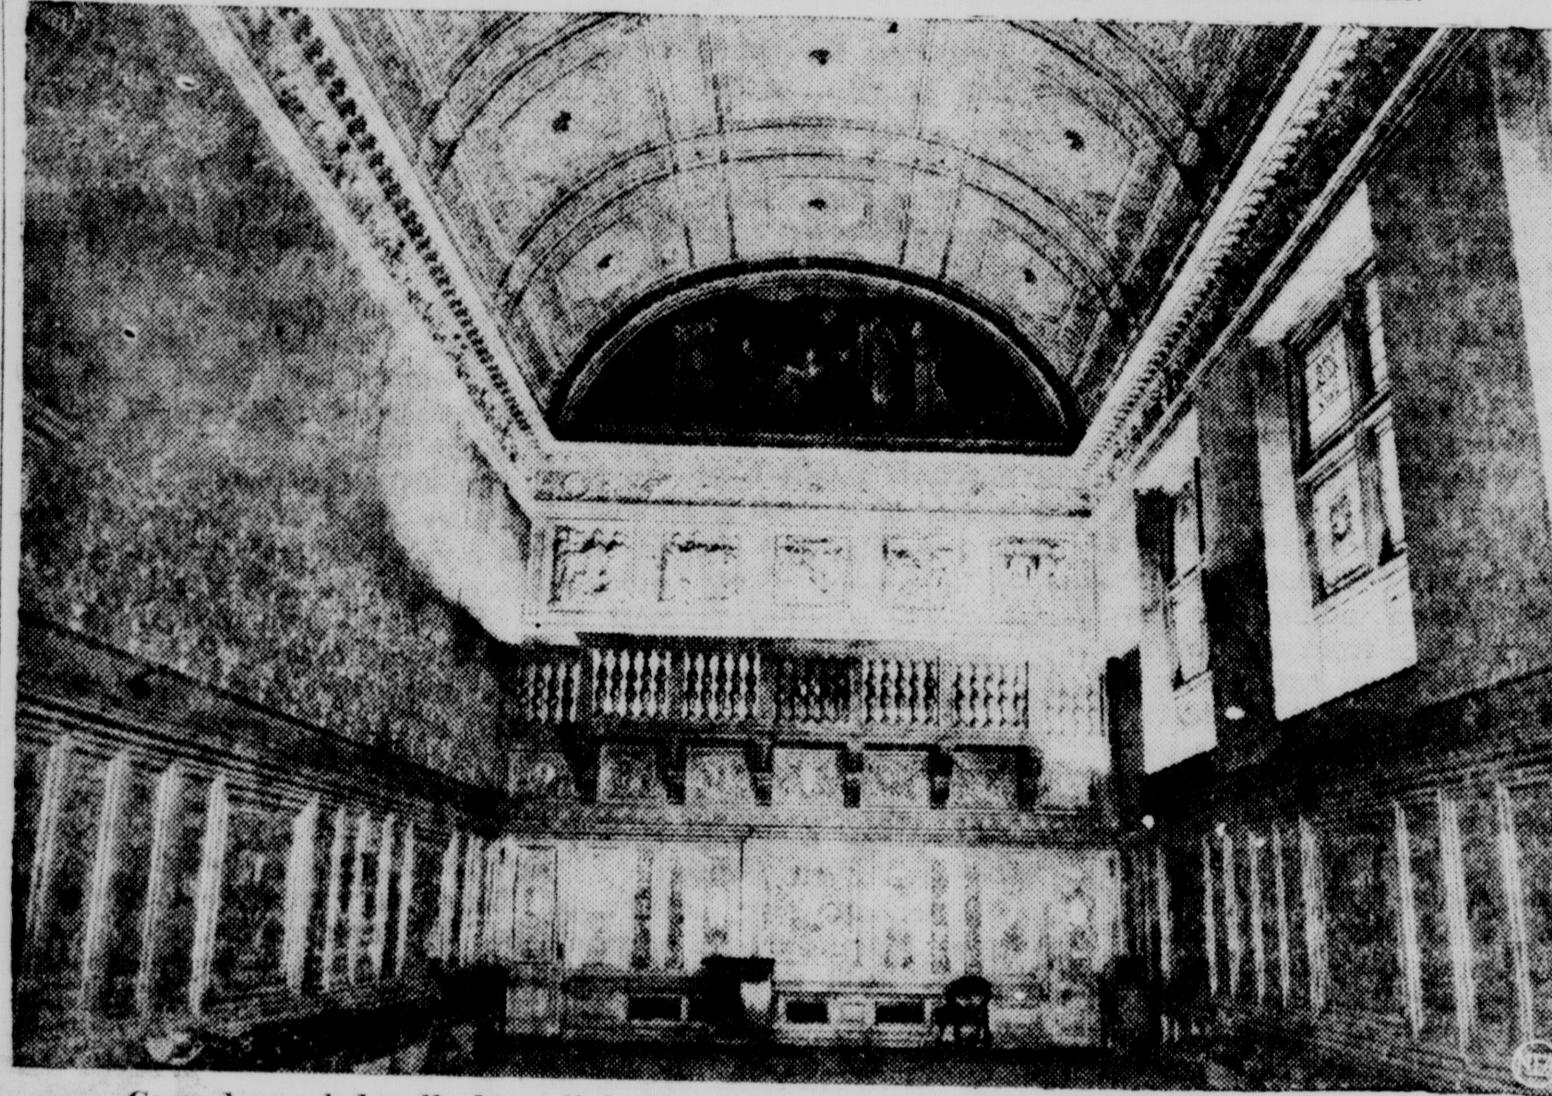

New York Mansion May House UNO Offices

If, as expected, the United Nations Organization Security Council and standing committees take over the former Whitelaw Reid home in New York, many if not most of the UNO officials will be working in an atmosphere of luxury to which they are entirely accustomed. For the block-long, four-story, 30-room, brown-stone structure is one of America's great mansions, outstanding even during the lush Victorian era. It was built as a town house by Whitelaw Reid in 1895, four years after his marriage to Elizabeth Mills, the only word to describe the interior of the mansion, designed and decorated by Stanford White, leading architect of his day. Most of politics, their interests became worldwide. Mrs. Reid became, its rich furnishings were sold at auction in 1934. Some 5,000 persons attended the two-day sale, netting nearly $160,000. During World War I, Mrs. Reid turned the house over to the Red Cross, as a teaching center. Closed since her death in 1931, it was re-opened during World War II as a club for the women's auxiliaries of the Allied forces and offices for the French Relief Society.

The three-winged Reid mansion takes in the full block frontage on Madison Avenue.

Carved, paneled walls, bas reliefs, frescoes and stained-glass windows enrich the ballroom.

Gone are the books, many of them rare editions, that lined the walls of the library.

of Ickes' policy of withholding 1080. Grain losses from rats every year run into several millions of dollars. And while Secretary of Agriculture Anderson is urging conservation of grain, rat poison which would save thousands of bushels of grain is being withheld from the public.

Discharging Fathers

Scholarly Senator Austin of Vermont, leading Republican, took occasion to lecture another Republican, freshman Senator Revercomb of West Virginia, at a recent closed-door session of the senate military affairs committee, of which both Austin and Revercomb are members, the West Virginian made a speech demanding that the military affairs committee be discharged from its consideration of the bill, and that it be taken up by the whole senate at once.

Senator Austin didn't like these tactics.

"This is a dignified committee of the United States senate," he said, "and I was astounded that a member of this committee should propose that we be discharged from consideration of a bill assigned to us. Does this mean that if this committee does not agree with all the demobilization recommendations of its subcommittee, members of the subcommittee will move to discharge us in order to win a senate vote on their proposal?"

Since Revercomb was not present, the question went unanswered. Meanwhile the war department has informed the military affairs committee that demobilization can be carried out except the discharge of fathers. Fathers, Secretary of War Patterson said, cannot all be discharged from the army by July 1.

Note — This columnist has reason to believe that out of 700,000 fathers in the army, about 500, results. 1 week, 80c.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

One long blast as a warning, followed by three short blasts of the whistle at Dorn and Clooney's laundry at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon gave official notice of a cold wave that is to visit this section tonight. The almanac says it will be 12 degrees below zero in St. Louis tomorrow and 20 below at Omaha.

James C. Connor has sold his driving horse "Sombre John" to T. J. Phelps of Armstrong in Howard county for a fancy price.

At a meeting of Sorosis, yesterday afternoon, Mrs. George McKown read an excellent paper on "The Idylls of the King" and Mrs. J. M. Offield gave a reading from Tennyson.

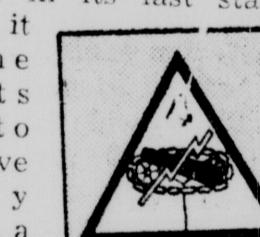

The street force is cleaning up and carting away the mud on Ohio street, and the job isn't any small one by any means either.

J. S. Goodrich, proprietor of the Valley View stock farm of Duroc-Jersey hogs of Dellville, Kas., has been in this section for the last few days looking for good stock to ship to his farm and has succeeded in securing some extra fine cattle and hogs. He selected from Orchardwood stock farm near Beaman a pedigree yearling bull which Capt. Thomson, the proprietor, thought was the choice of his herd. Mr. Goodrich also secured from W. S. Sneed's herd of Shorthorns two thoroughbred yearling heifers at good prices. He selected from McFarland Bros. Pettis county herd of Duroc-Jersey hogs three sows and gilts, all bred, and two boars.

Black Cat Leader Traps Nazi Rats

By N.E.A. Service

When the 13th Armored (Black Cat) Division cleared the U. S. for Europe in late January, 1945, the war was in its last stages. But before it was over, the Black Cats managed to close in to give the shaky Wehrmacht a first-class mau.

In the drive of General Patton's Third Army through Southern Germany, men of the 13th Armored performed with the skill and courage of veterans. They were never stopped.

Late in April, the Black Cats crossed the Danube river east of Regensburg, two miles southeast of Straubing. And on May 2—less than two weeks before the Germans threw in the sponge—the 13th had slugged its way to Branau.

An illustration of the coolness and daring of the Black Cats, despite their comparatively meager combat experience, can be found in the adventure of Lt.-Col. Dale E. Means, an assistant chief of staff of the division.

Captured during the mop-up of Straubing, Means was held prisoner for four hours. He attempted to talk his captors into surrender, but they refused. He told them, then, that his artillery and tanks would blow the town to bits. Still they refused. "Okay," Means said. "Let's see the mayor." The Nazis agreed, and the colonel knew that the situation was well in hand. They went to see the mayor, whose office—was already in the hands of the Yanks.

But when you are my age you know it is useless to try to run away from them. You might just as well give in gracefully. It's like using anodyne for a toothache. It stops it for a while, but having had a brief respite from the pain, you feel it is doubly severe when it comes back. I went out on the terrace with the evening paper, but none of the horror of the robot bombings, of the invasion front, seemed as real to me as the ugliness that had been loosed at Cliff's Edge that day. I turned to the comics—Fletch says that he and Betsy completely Americanized me by converting me to the comics—but, dear me, all the comics seemed to have their problems too. Finally I just lay back on the lounge and listened to the train whistles screeching in the valley.

It was quite dark before my Miss Jenny came out. She didn't sit down but wandered around, pushing one of the white chairs into place here, tugging at another one there. She scanned the sky and said, "Do you think it will rain, Nana?"

I said, "No," and nothing more was said for a while.

Then she said, "I wonder where Fletch is."

There was no sense in my answering that question; I couldn't even guess.

Then she asked, "Where's Dru?"

I could answer that. "She went to the moving pictures with Uncle Andrew."

My Miss Jenny said, "Oh," rather flatly, and I knew at that moment that she had known about Dru and Fletch.

Finally she said, "I think I'll go to bed. Tomorrow will be a tring day."

I thought to myself, "You aren't fooling me, Jenny Stites. You just want to stretch out flat on your bed in the darkness and think." That had always been my Miss Jenny's way when she had a problem, even when she was a little girl.

At the living room door she stopped. "I have to think—about Phillipa," she said.

"Murder!" They Cried

By DOROTHY STALEY

THE STORY: Phillipa wants Betsy to help her romance with Paul Downey, and threatens to tell his wife, Betsy, if she doesn't. Phillipa is furious. She orders Phillipa from the room. Phillipa is overheard by Sarah, the upstairs maid.

"Whatever are you talking about?" I asked.

"Fred has a full thirty days leave," she explained, "so they're having a party to celebrate all the special days they missed together. They'll probably throw in Christmas and New Year's, too, and I'll be quite late getting home. Ann said I might bring Fletch and Phillipa, but Fletch isn't home yet. Oh, Nana," she bit her lips and her hands curled into two little clenched fists, "something has to be done about Phillipa."

I shook my head, "Now, Betsy," I said.

She smiled ruefully at me, "Good night, darling," she said, and was gone swiftly in a swirl of white, like a bit of milkweed down caught in a breeze.

"You look very pretty, my dear," I said.

Betsy made a little face at me. "Pretty is such a breed and milk kind of word, Nana." That was the only indication she gave of the wrangle with Phillipa; the only acknowledgment she made of the fact that I must have heard, "Why not smart, or sophisticated?"

"Pretty," I said, "was an acceptable word when sophisticated was never applied to nice girls like you."

She came close and ruffled my hair with her cheek, and I added, "And remember, pretty is as pretty does."

She said, "Yes, Nana," and I thought she might be 12 tonight and going to a party. I blinked away the mist in front of my eyes, and spoke quickly because of the huskiness in my throat.

"Aren't you quite dressed up tonight?"

"This, darling," she answered,

"is a very extra special party, and we're all dressing in the grand manner. It's for Ann's birthday and Fred's birthday and their first and second wedding anniversaries."

They'll probably throw in Christmas and New Year's, too, and I'll be quite late getting home. Ann said I might bring Fletch and Phillipa, but Fletch isn't home yet. Oh, Nana," she bit her lips and her hands curled into two little clenched fists, "something has to be done about Phillipa."

I shook my head, "Now, Betsy," I said.

She smiled ruefully at me, "Good night, darling," she said, and was gone swiftly in a swirl of white, like a bit of milkweed down caught in a breeze.

"You look very pretty, my dear," I said.

Betsy made a little face at me. "Pretty is such a breed and milk kind of word, Nana." That was the only indication she gave of the wrangle with Phillipa; the only acknowledgment she made of the fact that I must have heard, "Why not smart, or sophisticated?"

"Pretty," I said, "was an acceptable word when sophisticated was never applied to nice girls like you."

She came close and ruffled my hair with her cheek, and I added, "And remember, pretty is as pretty does."

She said, "Yes, Nana," and I thought she might be 12 tonight and going to a party. I blinked away the mist in front of my eyes, and spoke quickly because of the huskiness in my throat.

"Aren't you quite dressed up tonight?"

Miss Maudell Cook, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Frank D. Cook, of Leasburg, Mo., formerly of Smithton, and Sgt. Norman Eugene Luce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Luce of Kansas City, Kas., were married at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, February 1, at the First Baptist church in Sedalia, the double ring ceremony being performed by the bride's father.

Before the ceremony Mrs. Thomas W. Croxton played as a brief recital preceding the service, "I Love You Truly," "All for You," "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," and "Believe Me All Those Endearing Young Charms." As the bridal party entered she played the Bridal Chorus from "Loehngrin" and the Mendelssohn "Wedding March" at the close of the nuptials. As the vows were being exchanged she played "I Would Be True." Accompanied by Mrs. Croxton, Robert Wild sang "O Promise Me" and "Because."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white designed with an inset yoke of net in the lace bodice and a net skirt over white satin. Her fingertip veil was fastened to a crown of white pearls. The bridal bouquet was of red rosebuds tied with white ribbons and Miss Colvin's with pink.

Acting as best man for Sgt. Luce was Hulon Luetjen of Kansas City. Ushers were G. W. Meyer of Lamotte and Clifford Cook, brother of the bride.

Charles and Charla Edwards, twin son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Edwards, of Sedalia, lighted the candles in branched candelabra which were interspersed with baskets of gladioli as altar decorations.

After the ceremony a supper was served to the wedding party at Hotel Bothwell.

Mrs. Luce, nee Miss Cook, graduated from the Smithton high school in 1944 and attended Central Business College. She served as secretary to the Rev. Croxton of Sedalia and continues in that capacity in Kansas City for his editorial duties on the Missouri Baptist paper, "The Word and Way."

Sgt. Luce has been in the army for two and a half years and after 90 days at home will go to Clovis, N. M., for further service with the Army Air Forces. Sgt. and Mrs. Luce are residing with his parents in Kansas City, Kas., at 4461 Cambridge.

"The Emperor's Physician" is a powerful reaffirmation that the faith taught in the New Testament is as valid today, when it is desperately needed, as it ever was. Mrs. Harve Terry summarized in her review of this book Monday afternoon at Sorosis, and "can be, to quote the author's hope for it, 'a therapy for a war-weary world.'

Introducing her account of the book, Mrs. Terry, known for the richness of her reviews, said, "It is refreshing and encouraging to read Jacob Randolph Perkins' masterful novel of Palestine in the days of Jesus. The story is sincerely and devoutly experienced and recounted. Its chief challenge lies in the conflict between science and faith."

A friend of the author, whom she has known for 60-odd years, she told of Dr. Perkins' early life in his native town of Renick, Mo., giving an insight into his character and background, and later presented a compelling condensation of the novel.

Mrs. Terry commented that "The Emperor's Physician" reads like an expanding sermon, tense and instructive, and, in point of fact, the work, recently published, originated in a series of lectures Dr. Perkins gave on the life of Christ good many years ago. His research, she pointed out, carried him into fields not too remote from Christianity—medicine, sociology and psychology. She likened the book to "The Nazarene" and "The Robe."

"The book has much to say about the singular political, social and religious contradictions in Palestine. In Jerusalem we find the liberals working against the oppression of the rulers. We see the abyss between the levels of the population, between swollen opulence on the one hand and grinding poverty on the other."

She also observed in her review that "at various times we see porters leave their burdens—the drivers their beasts; we see the worker leave his bench, the fisher his boat and the field laborer his plow. Why? Because, walking the hovel-lined streets was a Galilean carpenter who saw the sorrow of human society and the bruised heart of the world."

Mrs. H. U. Campbell, expressing her interest in adventure books of far-away places "filling a need for travel that I can't do," reviewed James Norman Hall's "The Lost Island" on the program given at the Heard Memorial club house.

"The Lost Island" is the story of a special mission to which a Col. George Dodd was assigned in 1942, the purpose being to make an island into a landing strip and a port of supply. A successful engineer, Dodd is not happy, but does his work because it must be done.

In the description of the transporting of the natives to another island it is revealed that each family had a Bible and very few material possessions. One of the principal characters in the colorful story is Father Vincent, who is grieved at the destruction of 70 years work and the knowledge that he cannot begin again so late in life.

Scenes of beauty, expressive of potential contentment, mingled with the compulsion of tasks to be performed, are highlights in the book.

With the accomplishment of the mission, Mrs. Campbell related, a perfect landing base was established where the islanders once had lived happily and unmolested. As a conclusive thought on the events and the disruption involved, Mrs. Campbell observed that "the people lost a very important human right—the right to be happy where they are."

The book reviewers were introduced by Miss Jessie Blair, chairman of the History and Literature department.

Miss Etta Hurley, Civics chairman, announced that on next week's program Dr. W. E. Pearl would speak on "Socialized Dentistry."

Mrs. Don S. Lamm, vice president, presided over the meeting.

Miss Jo-Beth Croxton, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas W. Croxton, 511 West Broadway, has re-entered Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, for her senior year. She is majoring in Journalism, and is a pledge of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

En route to Louisiana Miss Croxton visited for a week with friends in Monticello, Ark., her former home.

The thirteenth birthday anniversary of Cynthia Judy Gorrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Gorrell, 1208 South Carr avenue, was celebrated with a party at the Country club Monday from 4 to 6 p.m.

Decorations were in the Valentine motif. Awards were presented the game winners and further entertainment consisted of dancing and picture taking.

Guests were: Verna Mae Williams, Emily Kay Miller, Sally Jo Dowdy, Joyce Wilson, Beverly Loveland, Kay Brown, Gloria Jean Neely, Nancy Jane Oswald, Patty Sue Callis, Mary Ann Young, Ruth Ann Decker, Beverly Ann Hand, Dixie Lu Gorrell and Neva Eirls.

Mrs. R. R. Gorrell was assisted by Mrs. Cecil Owens, Mrs. Carl Oswald and the honoree's grandmother Mrs. C. T. Gorrell in serving refreshments.

Miss Irene Zimmerschied, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zimmerschied of Mora and Mr. Oscar Roloff of Cleveland, O., were married at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed church, with the pastor Rev. William C. Bessner, reading the double ring service in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Owen.

The bride resided at 1221½ South Ohio and for the past year has been employed at Billy's Beauty Shop.

Mr. Roloff recently received his honorable discharge from the Army Air Corps. He served both in the United States and in the Pacific area.

The couple will make their home in Cleveland.

The Nautilus club of La Monte enjoyed a program presented by the education committee Thursday afternoon, preceded by a session of routine business during which the club voted to join the March of Dimes.

Mrs. E. Keller, program chairman, presented Mrs. Orville Woolery, who played two piano selections "Valse Blue" and "Flower Song," and the Rev. Orval Woolery (Baptist pastor) whose address was entitled "A Cloud of Witnesses."

Guests were the Rev. Harvey Smith and son Paul and Beth Woolery.

Refreshments were served.

Air Scouting Subject of Address Today

Group Meet at Lunch to Hear Visiting Speaker

Lieut. W. W. Brock, U. S. Army Air Corps, Omaha, Neb., was the speaker at noon today at an informal meeting of Sedalians interested in Boy Scout activities in this city. Lieut. Brock's talk was with reference to the organization of a group to sponsor air scouting.

The meeting was presided over by John W. Ryan, member of the Sedalia Council of Boy Scouts of America. Mr. Ryan introduced Judge J. V. Kesterson, who in turn introduced those present.

A. W. Schluemboh, field executive, presented Lieut. Brock. Lieut. Brock, a liaison officer of the U. S. Army Air Corps, explained that he had been assigned to Region Eight of the Boy Scouts to speak on Air Scouting and give all assistance possible from the Air Corps to Boy Scouts in the air scouting program.

Scout Division

He said this week is the 36th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. It was organized in 1910 at which time there were but 65,000 scouts and leaders in the organization.

At the present time there are two million scouts, leaders, and others interested in the program. Since that time it has added three important scouting programs. The first was the Sea Scouts, the second Exploring Scouts, and now Air Scouting.

"Air Scouting does not mean," he said, "that a boy is a member of the Boy Scouts, but all boys and young men from the age of 15 years up are qualified for this program. He told of the benefits derived from the program, which will teach the young men interested in the fundamentals of aviation, whether he is interested in going into business, following it as a profession or a hobby.

"He told how the activity which will take up the spare time of these young men, teach them aviation, not to train them for war but to give them the ideas of what aviation means to civilization, and the peace of the world."

Summer Camps

"The Army Air Corps plans summer encampments for Air Scouting, by this I mean," he said, "these camps will be sponsored at U. S. Army air fields and bases where these young men can spend a week or ten days and learn the fundamentals of what keeps the airplanes in the air."

In closing, Lieut. Brock explained the value of an air squadron to Sedalia through Air Scouting.

Ike Wall, executive of the Ozark Council, Jefferson City, was also present at the meeting.

Meeting at Horace Mann Friday Afternoon

The Horace Mann Parent-Teachers association will meet Friday at 3 p. m. at the school. Founders' day will be observed with a program directed by Mrs. Henry Salveter, Founders' day chairman. A tea will follow the business session.

A meeting of the executive committee at 2 o'clock will precede the regular meeting.

Pfc. H. D. Ballard Released

Harold D. Ballard, 401 North Stewart avenue, recently received his army discharge at Ft. McPherson, Ga., after 40 months in service, including nine spent overseas as clerk typist.

A private first class at the time he received his discharge, he had been awarded the European and American theater ribbons and the Good Conduct medal.

The department's defense was made in a lengthy report submitted to the House Military committee.

A meeting of the executive committee at 2 o'clock will precede the regular meeting.

Postpone Hearing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(P)—The Senate Naval committee to-day postponed from tomorrow until Monday resumption of hearings on the nomination of Edwin W. Pauley to be undersecretary of the navy.

The committee explained that several members were away from Washington.

Defend Military Leaders

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(P)—The War Department defended to-day the judgment of military leaders in executing the 36th (Texas) division's costly Rapido river crossing attack in Italy.

The department's defense was made in a lengthy report submitted to the House Military committee.

Smith-Cotton Loses To Kewpies

Smith-Cotton's Tigers lost their chance for first place in the Central Missouri basketball conference Monday night when they went down in defeat 43 to 32 against the Kewpies of Hickman high school at Columbia.

Columbia and Sedalia would have been tied for top spot, had Sedalia won, but with the loss the S-C squad slides to second position, with another conference game, with Kirksville, scheduled for Friday night.

Playing "hot and sharp" the Columbia basketeers smothered the Tigers 26 to 16 in the first half, but the Smith-Cotton players came back and hit the loop for 16 points, while their opponents marked up 17 in the last two quarters for the final 43-32 tally.

The referees were from the University of Missouri.

The Tigers will play Clinton high school in a non-conference game tonight at Clinton. The Sedalia-Kirksville game here Friday night will be the last scheduled game of the season.

Johnny Mize Ready to Join The Giants

Marty Marion not a Holdout but he is Wanting More Money

By Joe Reichler

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(P)—Big John Mize, who cost the New York Giants $50,000 in addition to three players back in 1941, but joined the navy after playing only one year with his new club, is about ready to pay dividends to President Horace Stoneham.

One of the first arrivals at the Miami, Fla., spring training camp, Mize declared he was in the "best shape in his life." Already pared down to his normal playing weight of 205 pounds, the former Cardinal, gave an indication yesterday of what he may mean to the Giants this season by lurching for 400 feet the first ball served.

Other pre-war Giants among the squad of 51 already in camp include Pitcher Hal Schumacher and Infelder Dick Bartell, stars of the 1936 and '37 pennant winning clubs, Outfielder Babe Young and Second Baseman Nick Witek, Mize, Witek, Bartell and Billy Rigney, a likely looking shortstop for whom the Giants paid $25,000 two years ago, although still in the navy at the time, comprised the "regular" infield in yesterday's first practice session.

Other news along the baseball front:

St. Louis Cardinals — Shortstop Marty Marion announced that while he did not class himself as holdout, he wants more money. "I don't like the terms in the contract offered me by Mr. Breadon (Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals) and I told him so," Marion said yesterday. "But I'm sure we'll get together."

Boston Red Sox — Pitcher Tex Hughson became the 39th player in the fold when he signed his contract, leaving only 12 unsigned. General Manager Eddie Collins identified infielders Johnny Pesky, Bobby Doerr, Rudy York, Al Flair, Outfielder Dom DiMaggio and Pitcher Emmet O'Neill as five of the unsigned.

New York Yankees — With George Stirnweiss still absent to delay the expected torrid second base battle with Joe Gordon, the spotlight was switched to first base where last year's regular Nick Ettin was engaged in a four-cornered scrap with Buddy Hassett, Johnny Sturm and Steve Shuckoff.

Brooklyn — A total of 145 players were in uniform in the Dodgers first workout necessitating the formation of six separate teams in order to produce work for all hands.

TODAY A YEAR AGO — Harold "Jug" McSpaden and Byron Nelson shot 284 apiece to end up in a tie in the final round of the New Orleans Open golf tournament.

THREE YEARS AGO — Pitcher Carl Hubbell of the Giants returned his signed contract to the New York office.

FIVE YEARS AGO — C. S. Howard's Porter's Cap won the Santa Anita Derby and $4,975.

TEN YEARS AGO — Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankee rookie, for a reported $8,000.

E. E. Brummet Gets Discharge

Edward E. Brummet, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Earl Brummet, 1701 South Harrison avenue, was discharged from service last week at Jefferson Barracks and with his wife left Sedalia Monday morning for Emmetsburg, Iowa, where Mrs. Brummet and their two sons, Edward and John, have been residing with her parents.

Brummet, who was in service nearly two years was an M. A. M. 2/c in the navy postal service, and was stationed in Hawaii for 14 months. He was met in St. Louis by his wife when he received his discharge last Tuesday and they spent the remainder of the week there.

A clerk at the Sedalia post office when he was inducted, Brummet expects to return to his position there.

Near Accord On Program For Housing

Homes-For-Vets Plan Accorded More Support

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(P)—Almost complete agreement on legislation to carry out President Truman's vast homes-for-veterans program was reached Monday by house Democratic and Republican leaders.

After housing administrator Wilson W. Wyatt gave notice that he executive agencies are restoring almost a wartime system of controls in the housing industry, the legislators decided to unite in pushing a bill which would:

Provide $600,000,000 in subsidy payments to encourage higher output of scarce building materials.

Extended for a year beyond June 30 the government's power to allocate and grant priorities in building materials.

Give veterans preference in obtaining the proposed 2,700,000 new homes in two years.

Issue To Be Argued

The Republicans balked, however, at the Truman-Wyatt plan to put price ceilings on the existing 40,000,000 dwellings, leaving this issue to be fought out on the house floor. The measure is to reach the floor next week.

The agreement came at a conference of Wyatt with Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the house banking committee; Rep. Wolcott, Mich., senior committee Republican, and Rep. Patman (D-Tex) author of the emergency housing bill which the committee watered down and approved last week. The bill will come out as then approved, but the committee group will jointly offer amendments on the newly agreed points.

For want of jurisdiction, the banking group referred to other committees Mr. Truman's request for $250,000,000 for government-built housing and for legislation to permit rapid tax amortization of new private plants built to produce materials or finished houses.

Earlier in the day, Wyatt announced that the government will sharpen its priority program so that most of the scarce materials set aside for residences will go into homes costing $6,000 or less and renting for $50 and under.

The present regulation gives priority to builders of homes up to $10,000—too high, Wyatt said, to meet the needs of most veterans.

"The war is still on in housing, as far as the spending of money and the need for emergency action are concerned," Wyatt told a news conference.

Up to 300 expeditors—"action mean," Wyatt called them—will be attached to his staff to help break bottlenecks, plant by plant.

Part of the needed government help was promised last night by the civilian production administration, he noted. OPA announced forthcoming orders which will "drastically curtail commercial and industrial construction" as well as higher-priced home building.

Wyatt delivered an appeal for his "premium payment" plan. It will not be used to subsidize present production, he said, but will apply only to materials produced over and above present output.

"When production goes up and costs of production go down, the premiums should be cut down.

Approximately $2,000 damage resulted to a building at the Missouri Pacific shops, located in the center of the new shop grounds, Monday night. The shed was used for storage of oil and waste.

The structure was enveloped in flames upon the arrival of the city fire companies in answer to an alarm at 7:25 p.m. A few minutes before the shop emergency began, the door had blown.

Flames from the blazing building jumped across a loading dock and set fire to a box car loaded with empty oil barrels, according to William Middleton, assistant fire chief, but were quickly brought under control. Damage to the box car was minor, he said.

One line of hose was laid by the city fireman in addition to two lines brought into action by the shop fire department.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. The shed that burned was described as being about 50 by 20 feet, and was situated south of the freight shed.

Talent Scout

Two Years Term On Forgery

Lawrence L. Scharnhorst, Holden, pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery, Monday, in the Pettis county circuit court and was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary. He declined the court's offer to appoint an attorney for him.

John W. Dial pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a car while intoxicated and was fined $50 and costs, which he paid, and surrendered his driver's license.

Gains For The U. S. And The World By Loan

Byrnes Points Out It Would Swell World Trade

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(P)—Secretary of State Byrnes said Monday the projected $3,750,000 loan to Britain would provide

"tangible, firm gains for the United States and for the rest of the world."

"What we gain is the chance for expanding world trade, for freedom, for goods and money to flow where they say, for a prosperous world and not a lean world," Byrnes said. His address was prepared for the foreign policy association and for broadcast in part by ABC.

It was the secretary's first speech on the proposed multi-billion dollar loan and trade agreement made public Dec. 6 and now awaiting congressional action.

Byrnes said he believed some of the most significant American benefits would come from the pledge to support U. S. trade goals, contained in the British "white paper," issued simultaneously with the loan proposal.

The "white paper" calls for a collective assault by the United Nations on all trade barriers to promote a freer flow of goods in post-war world commerce. It will be the basis for an American-sponsored world trade conference this summer.

"By this commitment, the British take their place at our side as our economic Allies and not our economic enemies," Byrnes declared. He added, however, that the British can not participate in the program for free trade unless the loan is approved by congress.

What To Expect

If it is approved, he said, the U. S. can expect:

1. A general reduction of tariffs and elimination of trade preferences;

2. Fewer quotas, embargoes and government subsidies;

3. A "loosing of the grip of cartels and combines upon world commerce;"

4. "Progressive elimination of export restrictions and price-fixing arrangements."

Byrnes denied that the British loan would require the U. S. to extend similar credits to other governments.

"This credit is not a precedent for anything," he said. "It is unique because the position of Britain in world trade, her need for working capital, and the effect upon world trade of her acquiring that working capital, all are unique."

Because of Britain's all-out war effort, it has emerged from the war with its exports down to about one-third of pre-war; with many plants bombed out, foreign fleet sunk, he said.

Byrnes added that unless credit is extended to the British they cannot purchase the equipment they need to reconstruct, and until reconstruction is achieved, their purchases aboard cannot reach the old volume "much less an expanded value."

Anniversary By Boy Scouts

Pot-Luck Supper And Program At Sedalia Armory

The Sedalia district of the Ozark Council of Boy Scouts of America honored the thirty-sixth birthday of Boy-Scouting at a pot-luck supper Monday night at the Armory, Ninth and Ohio avenue. The principal speaker of the evening was Mayor H. C. Rethwisch Fayette. He is also the executive secretary of the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce. The supper was enjoyed by approximately two-hundred people interested in the Scouting activities.

The Song "America" was lead by Charles Maggard and the invocation was by Rev. Merrick of the Episcopal church.

Immediately following the repast and introduction of Cline Cain and his committee; Judge Kesterson, John Ryan, scout executive and Julius Stohr by master of ceremonies Frank Hannigan, a business meeting was held.

A musical program was presented by a group of Boy Scouts from troop 54. The musical selections was from a "clown band" made up of the following boys: director, "Bill" Morgan; "Bobby" Stanley, "Ronnie" Johnson, "Jimmie" Dittmer, Marvin Lankeau, "Bobby" Cahill, Donald Bellmar, Dan Doty, "Billy" Taylor, Jerry Sims, Frank Potts, "Billy" Matthews, Virgil Rodgers, Marvin Hanigan. They played several pieces on horns that they had made out of tin along the Bob Burns bazooka style. The boys played numbers such as "The Missouri Walz", "My Wild Irish Rose", "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," and "I'm Always Blowing Bubbles". Following the musical was Judge J. V. Kesterson who made a few remarks on scouting and introduced the main speaker of the evening.

Spoke On Scout Benefits

Mayor Rethwisch, who served in World War I under Gen. Eisenhower, who was then a captain, spoke on "Be Prepared" citing numerous benefits of Scouting and the things that boys should derive from them. Mayor Rethwisch told of the active years Gen. Eisenhower spent in preparation to finally be assigned as chief of United States army forces in Europe.

Major Rethwisch in his speech pointed out that the world is changing and it is now an engineering world, a world that needs to be prepared for. He went on to stress that boys should profit by their mistakes. The mayor stated several things that success consists of and the fact that having goals to achieve is an important part in a boy's life. He emphasized how boy scouting teaches the boys to work harmoniously together. In the last part of his talk he told of the need of Pride, Loyalty, and in having faith.

The evening was concluded by everyone repeating the Scoutmaster's benediction which was led by Marvin Hanigan.
